A GOOD COMPARISON.

The Rev. William Rodatt, a well-known Methodist clergyman, residing at Naples, draws the following amusing but apt comparison between Dr. C. M. Lane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a ferret.

"A ferret when placed at the entrance of a rat hole, enters the aperture, travels along the passage, seizes upon the rat, exterminates his existence and draws the animal's defunct carcass to the light. And in like manner have I found Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge to operate upon worms, those dreadful and dangerous tormentors of children. This remedy, like the ferret, enters the aperture of the mouth, travels down the gullet, hunts round the stomach and lays hold of the worms, shakes the life out of the reptiles, sweeps clean their den and carries their carcasses clear out of the system. This, at least, has been the effect of the Vermifuge upon my children."

HEATED DEBATE IN THE SENATE

The Contest Between General Sherman and Davis Causes Some Democratic Senators to Show Their Color.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Among the petitions presented was one by Hoar, from Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood, praying congress to see that the votes cast for her in the late presidential election be counted.

VanWyck, from the committee on public lands, reported favorably, with amendments, the house bill to prevent unlawful occupancy of public lands. The principal amendment is to authorize the president to use civil and military force to remove and destroy illegal fences.

The chair laid before the senate a resolution, heretofore offered by Hawley, calling on the president for a copy of the historical statement concerning the public policy of the executive department of the confederate states, filed in the war department by General Sherman.

Harris said if Hawley thought any action of the senate was proper with regard to the paper or papers referred to, he would not object to the call, but if no such action was to be taken Harris could see no object in a call for the papers. They were in possession of the war department, and would appear in the rebellion record. Harris had examined the papers at the war department. They consisted somewhat of a voluminous argument by General Sherman on his side of a personal issue made through the newspapers between himself and Jefferson Davis. Hawley had presumed the papers would find their way into publicity, and he had desired a complete and non-partisan edition published.

Harris had not the slightest objection to the broadest publication of the papers, but saw no reason why they should be sent to the senate to be merely printed as an executive document and then slumber there.

Hawley said the papers related to the last year of the war, and would not probably be published in the rebellion record for a couple of years to come.

Harris doubted the propriety of calling for the papers.

Vest regretted the introduction of the resolution, not that he would oppose the largest publication of the history of the confederate states, but because the senate would be making itself indirectly a party to a controversy that had been going on in the public press. His relations with General Sherman were of the kindest character, and he believed he was his personal friend.

INGALLS REPLIES TO VEST.

Ingalls, in reply to Vest, said we had just witnessed the spectacle of an election of president of the United States by the votes of men who declared to-day that Jefferson Davis was a man of honor and a patriot. He (Ingalls) had heard the senator from Missouri (Vest) frequently allude with something like apparent pride and satisfaction to the part he played in the politics of the southern confederacy. There was no occasion for such allusions. It did not concern the argument of the question before the senate, when no appeal was made to partisan feeling, for senators to rise one after another and dwell upon the fact that they had been members of the confederate senate, and that Jefferson Davis was believed by the southern people (and that he had been actuated by sentiments of manhood and a patriot. Referring to Vest's allusion to his membership of the confederate senate Ingalls remarked that so far as the state of Missouri was concerned Vest had not been accredited to that senate, as the state of Missouri had not been out of the Union. In the name of the loyal people of Missouri, Ingalls protested against the sentiment he had heard so often expressed by Vest. As to the immediate controversy under discussion Davis had called Sherman a liar; that was the plain English of it. In any controversy between Davis and Sherman Ingalls was for Sherman, and so, he said, would all loyal people of the country be.

HAWLEY PREFERS SHERMAN TO DAVIS.

Hawley did not coincide with the view that by passing this resolution the senate would be taking sides in a private quarrel. Personally, however, he did not hesitate to say that in a controversy between Jefferson Davis and General Sherman, he (Hawley) was on General Sherman's side all the time. He believed General Sherman was on the right side, personal, political and military, in the war for the Union.

Harris inquired what good would be accomplished by merely printing the paper referred to in the resolution.

Hawley said in reply that there was matter in it that, in his mind, established beyond controversy the fact that before the war there had been an elaborate conspiracy in Washington, by which certain senators had decided upon the confederate government, had appointed committee of senators to go south to attend preliminary steps for its formation, agreed that others should remain here to prevent such legislation as might interfere with the success of the conspiracy. The matter under consideration was no more a personal quarrel than the four years of war for the Union had been a personal quarrel.

Vest said General Sherman had stated that he would make his reply to Davis through the war department. Of course, therefore, the paper was past personal controversy.

SHERMAN SPEAKS FOR HIS BROTHER.

Sherman said that from a feeling of personal delicacy, growing out of his relationship to one of the parties to the controversy, he would have preferred not speaking on it, but some of the senators seemed to treat it as a controversy between two citizens. It would be a matter of surprise to General Sherman that it was of that character. General Sherman had stated that he did not know Davis personally. General Sherman had, by invitation, attended the reunion of an army post, and in the course of some impromptu remarks, as reported by the newspapers perhaps correctly enough, said he regarded Davis as not only a rebel but a conspirator, and that he had seen certain letters and papers while on his march through Georgia tending to show that Davis, while the war was progressing, had abandoned his states rights convictions, and had become practically dictator in the south. But there was no personal matter in the controversy between Davis and General Sherman. General Sherman simply insisted on the right to class Davis as a conspirator and a traitor. Did that make a personal quarrel between two men? Far from it. He (the speaker) might as well be said in the same way to make a personal quarrel with the descendants of Benedict Arnold, by repeating historical fact. Davis had written a bitter article, not addressed to General Sherman, but substantially giving him the lie. General Sherman did not respond to that article by any letter to Davis, or to any newspaper. He did the very opposite. He was still, in every sense, an officer of the army, even though on the retired list. He was subject to the president's orders, as an army officer, and therefore he properly gave to his military superior the reasons for every assertion he had made. This he was bound to do. When an officer of the army, whether retired or not, had any insult put upon him, or anything which, among gentlemen, would reflect upon his character, his honor or integrity, he was bound, by his calling, to make an explanation to the proper authority to show that the imputation upon his honor was not just. This was therefore no personal controversy between Jefferson Davis and General Sherman, but here were some statements of a very striking character involved which ought to be put on the official records of the government.

The debate on Hawley's resolution grew warm. Before it ended Conger, Ingalls and Sherman characterized Davis as a conspirator and traitor, while Lamar and George said he was no more so than a number of senators on the floor. The matter went over till to-morrow.

House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Bills were introduced and referred as follows:

By Rosecrans—For the establishment of a branch soldiers' home in California.

Browne (Ind)—Referring to the controversy between the United States and Venezuela, in regard to the award made at Caracas in 1868.

By McComas—Tendering the thanks of congress to Commanders Schley and Coffin, and Lieutenant Emery and officers and men of their command, for the rescue of Lieutenant Greely and surviving comrades.

By George—To authorize the transfer of one of the vessels of the Greely relief expedition to the treasury department, for [illegible], and the retention of the other two for use in the navy.

A bill passed authorizing the judge of the court of the District of Columbia to appoint a competent lawyer to prepare a criminal code for the district. The report which accompanies the bill says: "The laws of England, prior to July 4, 1776, and the laws of Maryland, as they existed February 27, 1801, constitute the body of the laws for the punishment of crime in this district. [illegible] penalty for [illegible] of [illegible] pounds of tobacco, while for blasphemy the law prescribes boring through the tongue with a red hot iron. Arson in the daytime and arson at night are not differently punished. It was [illegible] doubted whether the appalling crime of [illegible] could be tried and punished in this district." Several other bills of local interest were passed.

THE CONSULAR AND DIPLOMATIC BILL.

This completed the district business, and the house went into committee of the whole, Wilson of Iowa in the chair, on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill.

Hill moved to restore to the $5000 class the consulship at Hankow, China, which in the bill has been placed in the $3000 class.

In advocacy of this amendment Ryan called attention to the fact that a line of steamers is now running between Shanghai and Hankow, under the American flag.

In response Burns intimated that these steamers were sailed under the American flag not because Americans owned or were interested in them, but for the purpose of protection during the French and Chinese war.

Belford inquired how foreigners could sail their vessels under the American flag, under treaties.

Burns replied that he could not answer for the truth of the assertion, but a statement had gone the rounds of the press that vessels were sailed under the American flag for protection of interests not our own.

Ryan said he would assume that the transfer of vessels to the American flag had been made in good faith, until he should have some better evidence to the contrary than newspaper rumor.

Randall inquired whether the transfers had not taken place immediately after the breaking out of war between France and China.

Ryan could see in that circumstance no evidence of bad faith.

Curtin made a brief speech on the importance of increasing our foreign commerce, especially with the countries of South America, and advocated strengthening and improving the consular service of the United States. He would not appoint as consuls, worn-out politicians, but would select the best men in the country, after civil service examination, and would not appoint any man who could not speak the language of the country to which he was accredited.

Hill's motion was lost, 40 to 6.

A point of order was made against the paragraph appropriating $12,000 to meet the necessary expenses attendant on the execution of neutrality laws, and the point was sustained by the chair.

Curtin appealed from the decision, and being of the opinion that he had been unfairly treated by the chair, raised the point of no quorum. On a vote to sustain the chair's decision, no quorum was present. Adjourned.

CONGRESSIONAL NOTES.

TO PREVENT ENCLOSURE OF PUBLIC LANDS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Senator Van Wyck to-day submitted a report from the senate committee on public lands, to accompany the bill also reported by him relating to the fencing of public lands. In the report the committee say that without lease authority, and in open, bold defiance of the rights of the government, large and often times foreign corporations fence in by cruel selfishness hundreds of thousands of acres, closing avenues of travel and preventing occupancy of lands by those seeking homes. They allege that lands within these enclosures still remain open to settlement, yet no humble settler with scant means for the necessaries of life would presume to enter any such enclosure to seek homes. The government has sufficient authority to drive those seeking homes from the Indian territory, and to burn the ranches of those invading the Yellowstone Park, while those appropriating vast areas are hoping that the only remedy to be used against them will be laws, and delays in the courts. Therefore the committee has added a new section to the house bill, authorizing the president summarily to remove all obstructions, and if necessary use the military power of the United States.

BELVA LOCKWOOD'S ELECTION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Belva Ann Lockwood, candidate of the equal rights party for president in the late campaign, in her petition to the senate, through Senator Hoar, asks that votes for her in New York, New Hampshire, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Maryland and California be counted, and that the electoral vote of Indiana be given to her. She charges that the votes cast for her were "fraudulently and illegally counted for the alleged majority candidate, the same being antagonistic to the letter and spirit of the law and subversive to every principle of equity and justice." She also asks that the senate "refuse to receive the electoral returns of the state of New York, or count them for the alleged majority candidate, for had the 1336 votes polled in said state for your petitioner been counted for her and not for one Grover Cleveland he would not have been awarded a majority of all the votes cast in said election in said state." Her reason for asking that the electoral vote of Indiana be cast for her, she says, is that "after the electoral college of that state had cast its vote for the aforesaid Grover Cleveland it changed its mind, as it had a legal right to, and did cast its united ballot for your petitioner."

BILLS REPORTED BY DOLPH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Senator Dolph to-day reported favorably, from the public lands committee, a bill to amend the act for the sale of timber lands in California, Oregon, Nevada and Washington territory, by striking out the words "unfit for cultivation and not fit for agriculture." The report says the object of the amendment is to allow lands chiefly valuable for timber, and in the present state unfit for agricultural purposes and which cannot be rendered fit for cultivation except by an outlay greater than the value of the land after it is cleared, to be sold for its timber. The secretary of the interior held that under the present law no timber land which it was possible to clear, and which, if it were even to cleared, and be suitable for cultivation, could be sold as timber land.

Dolph also reported from the same committee, adversely, the house bill for the relief of settlers of the Moquelumne rancho, California. The ground upon which the committee's action is based is the fact that by the recent action of the executive department the matter is soon to come before the courts for judicial determination.

TO PROVIDE A HARBOR BOARD.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Representative Breckenridge introduced in the house to-day a joint resolution, reciting that there is reason to doubt the efficiency of works on which the government has engaged for deepening outlets to the sea of sundry rivers and harbors, and temporarily creating a board to be called the United States harbor board, whose duty it shall be to visit all works now being constructed by the government for the improvement of outlets, by means of what is known as the jetty system, to make examination of the same and report its conclusions to the secretary of war. The board shall consist of seven members, to be appointed by the president, who shall each receive a salary of $5000 per year. An appropriation of $50,000 is made to enable the board to prosecute its investigations.

THE INDIAN LEASE INVESTIGATION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Mr. Crittenden, member of the Cherokee council, testified before the senate committee on Indian affairs to-day. He was informed that money was paid to secure the passage of the Indian lease bill. The Indian agent of the Miami, Osage and Kaw Indians, testified that these Indians leased about 5000 acres of lands to seven lessees, for ten years, at a yearly rental of three to four cents per acre. Witness had never been paid anything to secure leases. He advised the Indians to lease border lands of their reservation, in order to protect themselves from the incursion of cattle from Kansas and the Cherokee reservations.

ST. JOHN'S LETTER.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 12.—In connection with the controversy between Governor St. John of Kansas, and J. S. Clarkson of Iowa, and others, respecting the alleged offer of St. John to withdraw from the presidential canvass for money, the Globe-Democrat publishes the following letter, addressed to R. C. Kerens of this city. The words in brackets are supplied by the editor of the Globe-Democrat, they having been omitted in the original:

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 10, 1884.

Dear Sir: I made a mistake in coming here. I should have gone to Detroit, and have been in communicating with him [St. John] by telegraph. I have said to him at the conference that it was two-fifths down in Philadelphia to-morrow night, and three-fifths by the 18th, and he insisted upon 16th for the second payment, provided he left for Philadelphia to-day, and said "your man" Senator Plumb told me it should be done. Have just got this [from St. John]: "All right, leave in a short time for Philadelphia; will cancel all west of there. Meet me in Pittsburg to-night." I sent you telegram under the name of Johnson, because I did not want to use my own name. I confess I made the pledge quite mildly, but Plumb told me to make it. I mean by that he told me to keep St. John out in his state, and get him to Cincinnati, and you would give him $5000 or $6000 down, and then I said, "Suppose I pledge him $10,000; will my pledge be good?" And he said, "Yes, Kerens will give him $10,000." So if I have cut a big hog the pork belongs to Plumb. Now, I am going over to Pittsburg to see him [St. John]. Is it not possible for you to send some one over from New York to arrange with him, and fix him then and "thar"? I am a little guilty, because you don't respond to Johnson's call for aid for his country. It was not possible you were seduced on the road home, and thus it may not that you are drunk, for you are too good a St. Johnite and love the Sunday school. I have got St. John out of the state and made a promise to him that in some way I would redeemed. You may not care a [illegible], but I have to live with him and you don't. So does Plumb. Simpson "Come over." Hell! How scholarly! Truly yours,

JAMES F. LEGATE.

A DENIAL OF THE LETTER.

TOPEKA, Ks., Jan 12.—The State Journal this evening prints an interview with J. F. Legate in relation to the letter published to-day purporting to have been written by him to R. C. Kerens of St. Louis. After reading the letter carefully Mr. Legate said: "This letter is a cold-blooded forgery. I never wrote anything of the kind to him or anyone. It is a willful and malicious lie from beginning to end. I never knew Mr. Kerens and never met him but once. I rode with him from Cincinnati to Columbus, some ten days before the October election, when he outlined the method of the campaign in Cincinnati."

Mr. Legate also declared he never made any such proposition, written or oral; that Governor St. John had never talked upon that subject, had never offered to make any terms with the republicans, and that St. John had never authorized him to make any propositions, and that any charge that he had done so was a willful lie, gotten up to injure St. John and those who were lying on him.

CLARKSON SAYS LEGATE LIES.

DES MOINES, Jan 12.—The report of an interview with Legate at Topeka this afternoon reached here to-night, and was shown Mr. Clarkson. He said that his denial now that he made any overtures will be met by the sufficient contradiction of Kerens, Plumb, Dudley and others, with whom he discussed the overtures made on behalf of St. John, and that his denial to-day also finds ample contradiction in his own admissions, as made on the 9th to reporters of the Chicago and New York Tribunes and the St. Louis Republican that he did make such overtures. Clarkson added: "That letter of introduction he brought me from Senator Plumb showed that he had talked freely to Plumb about it, and this letter I still have. Legate's declaration that his letter to Kerens, as printed by the Globe-Democrat, is a forgery will not live long. The letter will be photographed, engraved and printed, and as his writing is characteristic and well known in Kansas, the identity of the letter and his authorship of it will very soon be proved."

THE PHELAN AFFAIR.

The Wounded Man Rapidly Recovering—Some News from England.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The hospital to-day reports Capt. Phelan progressing very satisfactorily; most of the stab wounds in the head and chest being already healed. It is expected that the wound which fractured the bone of the left arm, and the most serious flesh wound of all in the left arm, will be quite healed to-night. The captain's wife arrived to-day from Kansas City.

THE INTERVIEW IN QUESTION.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12.—In connection with the recent attempt against the life of Capt. Thomas Phelan, in New York, Frank P. Clark, who wrote the interview published in the Journal here, which led to the difficulty, stated to an Associated press representative to-night that in the interview the true status of the case was concealed, but it came so near the truth as to lead to war among the dynamiters. Phelan, he says, was one of ten men sent from this country to kill informer Carey. He made an effort to save the steamer Queen, as described. Dynamite, however, was placed in that vessel, not through wantonness, but by mistake, to blow up Carey, who was expected to sail on her.

PHELAN IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Phelan visited Hull in June, 1883, whereupon the police of Newcastle telegraphed the Hull police, notifying them of his arrival. Phelan was carefully watched by detectives, who occupied adjacent rooms in the hotel where he stopped. During Phelan's absence detectives examined his baggage, but found nothing of a compromising nature. Phelan went with several Irishmen, and frequented taverns. He met Kearney, and they spent an afternoon together. Kearney's mother kept a small shop in Hull. The police of Glasgow telegraphed the Hull police, instructing them carefully to watch Kearney and if any tangible evidence against him was obtained to arrest him. Kearney ultimately disappeared. Phelan, with great assurance and audacity, hearing he was being watched, visited the chief constable, complained of espionage, and threatened to complain to Sir Harcourt, unless the police desisted from watching him. He represented himself as traveling on behalf of the American government, on a secret and important mission. He produced a number of documents, purporting to be signed by gentlemen in high position in New York. They seem to indicate that Phelan was captain in the United States army, and also a New York police officer. He produced a revolver and asked the constable if he were arrested if the revolver would likely connect him with Fenianism, adding he always carried it for self protection. The constable was not deceived and telephoned to London, notifying the police of Phelan's departure thither.

PHELAN'S ASSAILANT.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Richard Short, who made the attack on Phelan, was suspected of connection with the Cork dynamite conspiracy. When Featherstone was arrested, in March, 1883, Short's house was searched. Short thereupon went to America, returned to Cork some time ago, and his family is now in the workhouse there. Phelan assisted Kearney to leave England when the latter was suspected of being a dynamite conspirator by the Glasgow police. Kearney used to be signal man on the Caledonian railway at Glasgow. He left his signal box just before the railway company's works and the corporation gas works were made objects of dynamite outrage. He had attended dynamite meetings and associated with Featherstone.

Kearney, whose name has been associated with the attack upon Phelan in New York, was not suspected, it seems, of being connected with the dynamiters, and remained in the service of the Caledonian railway until March, 1883. Then his connection with the dynamiters was disclosed by the trial of the Glasgow dynamiters in Edinburgh.

ENGLISH COMMENT ON O'DONOVAN ROSSA.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—All newspapers indulge in satirical paragraphs concerning the prudence of O'Donovan Rossa in being absent from his office when the Short and Phelan fight occurred. The Times says if there be a grain of truth in Phelan's revelations they would offer cause for England to demand Kearney's extradition. It is a great misfortune that heretofore respectable Americans have not seriously realized what was transpiring in their midst. Their eyes have now been opened and American law will make short work of Rossa and accomplices if their guilt shall be proven. The time has certainly arrived to set the law in motion.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Daily News says of Phelan: "Questions regarding extradition are always delicate, therefore, it is much better that Americans should discover for themselves what sort of miscreants their tolerance is fostering."

The Daily Telegraph says: "If a few American citizens shall be killed the American government will perhaps interfere to check operations of the murder colony in their midst."

THE STORM KING.

Great Damage Wrought by a Cyclone in the South.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 12.—A cyclone passed over the adjoining county of Jones at 12 last night, sweeping everything in its track. Large oaks were twisted like straws. One large orchard was destroyed. The roof of R. H. Lester's dwelling is a complete wreck, and no ruins of [illegible] remain. Lester was thrown against a mantel and slightly hurt. The next place was George Perdue's place, where nearly all the houses were destroyed, and corn and fodder blown away.

The cyclone passed over to Baldwin county, destroying everything in its path. Dwellings, ginhouses, barns, fences, horses and mules were blown away, and several persons injured but no lives lost. The roar of the cyclone was heard fully eight miles away.

GREAT DAMAGE CAUSED.

SELMA, Ala., Jan. 12.—Specials to the Times to-night report a cyclone last night passing through Hale, Perry and Bibb counties, this state, from southwest to northeast. Great damage was done to houses and fences and timber in its path, which was about a mile wide. In Bibb county, near Centerville, it is reported that a man, name unknown, was killed. Mrs. Mason sustained serious injuries. Several mills were wrecked. Near Randolph two mules were killed. Six houses a mile away from the path shook so that inmates thought the Spanish earthquake had come this way. The damage to houses and property will reach thousands of dollars. Timber in the forests is greatly injured. Nearly 5000 trees are lying within one mile across the road near Randolph.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 12.—A cyclone last night, about fifty miles north of this city, swept down timber for the width of half a mile. It came from the southwest and went and traveled in a northeast direction. A number of houses were blown down, but so far only one death is reported. Trains on the South and North road were delayed several hours.

GENERAL NEWS

GENERAL GRANT'S HEALTH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—General Grant's physician said last night, in response to inquiries with regard to the general's health: "General Grant consulted me early in the autumn about a pain in the side of his tongue which rendered it painful for him to masticate and to swallow his food. The general smoked cigars largely, and this seemed to irritate his tongue. We restricted him to three cigars a day, and he stopped smoking of his own accord. Very remarkably this change was not followed by any disturbance of the nervous system or general nutrition. He improved rapidly, and is able to speak without pain. His general appearance is improved in every respect. He is now occupied several hours a day in literary work, which he seems to enjoy. I think he is in better health than he has been since the accident a year ago. He is still lame from the injury to the thigh, which has left great tenderness. He is unable to walk on account of pain and feebleness without the aid of a crutch or stick. There is nothing that would justify the assertion that he is seriously ill, and he is not in a critical condition."

MYRA CLARKE GAINES' WILLS.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.—Attorneys representing Mrs. Maria Perkins, wife of W. R. Evans, to-day offered for probate a will dated January 8, 1880, naming Mrs. Evans administratrix of the estate of Mrs. Myra Clarke Gaines, who leaves property in this state and Washington City. This will, the clerk stated, was in Mrs. Gaines' hand writing. Soon after the above proceedings an attorney appeared in court with another will, naming William H. Walker and James Y. Christian executors. These parties were astonished to hear that succession has already been opened, and asserted that Mrs. Gaines could not write January 8, being then ill, and the will they offered is dated January 5, 1885, in nuncupative form, under private signature (her mark), in the presence of five well known citizens, who signed as witnesses. After making a few bequests to others, Mrs. Gaines wills her estate to be divided equally between her six grandchildren.

REV. NEWMAN OUSTED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—At a meeting of the Madison avenue Congregational church society, the anti-Newman party was successful in electing its board of trustees. Peter DeWitt (Ranney) served an injunction on Benjamin Wright, clerk of the board of trustees, and secretary of the church, restraining him from acting in either official capacity. Howard R. St. Julian was then elected secretary. Deacon Cummings introduced a resolution dismissing Rev. Dr. Newman from the pastorship. This was passed, but not without opposition from Dr. Newman's friends, who claimed all the proceedings of the evening were void, as many had voted who had no right to cast a ballot. The meeting then adjourned.

GENERAL BUTLER BRINGS A LIBEL SUIT.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—General Butler has brought suit against the Boston Herald, claiming $75,000 damages for publication of an article which purported to come from one of the crew of the steamer Mount Vernon, claiming that General Butler caused the arrest of the captain of the transport Mississippi, while the vessel was on the way to Ship island from Hampton roads, because he would not put into Hatteras inlet, and that in consequence of this arrest and assumption of her command by Butler the Mississippi went ashore and was damaged, and the Mount Vernon went to her relief. The allegations are denied by General Butler.

CHICAGO MERCHANTS COMPLAINING.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Special Treasury Agent Swift of this city has gone to New York to consult with Collector Robertson about present complaints of leading importers of this city that there is systematic under-estimation of imported goods at the New York custom house, which gives eastern merchants unfair advantage over those of the west, whose goods are valued here. The recent case of Madame Arline will be presented in the same connection.

THE NEW YORK SENATORSHIP.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—It is rumored to-night that Speaker Erwin intends to cut down the minority representation of four on all important assembly committees to three to make room for representatives who favor Morton for senator. A report also obtains circulation that Chauncey M. Depew will turn up as a candidate whenever a compromise may become inevitable.

REPORTED DISCOVERY OF TREASURE.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 12.—A report is current here to-night that while digging a cellar at Braddocks, Pa., near the scene of Braddock's defeat, a number of workmen unearthed an old chest, containing gold to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars. Owing to the late hour communication with Braddock is cut off for the night.

Cabinet Crisis Threatened in France—Serious Revolt in Tonquin—Notes from All Other World Points.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The examination of William Rautscher, second mate, and Ferdinand Koelpam, boatswain of the American ship J. F. Chapman, for the murder of seaman A. Jansen while on the voyage from San Francisco to Liverpool, was resumed this afternoon. The case attracts much attention and the court room was crowded. The prisoners were arrested in Liverpool, the latter part of December, upon the arrival of the ship at that port. Their arrest was brought about by testimony of the crew to cruel treatment of Jansen. After Jansen, who was a Russian Finn, had shipped the captain found reason to suspect that he was penniless and sick, and had joined the crew for the sole purpose of securing passage to Europe. Jansen's inability was resented by the captain as a pretense to shirk tasks, and when the ship was two days out that officer seized him savagely, and struck him in the face, because he did not "pull harder" in hoisting the topgallant sail. The second mate and boatswain took their cue from the captain and gave Jansen such ill usage thereafter that his death, which occurred at sea October 8, is attributed to horrible cruelties inflicted by prisoners. At the preliminary hearing at Birkenhead a probable case was made out against Rautscher and Koelpam, and they were remanded. Harcourt, home secretary, then assumed control of the case and had the prisoners removed to London to facilitate extradition to the United States in case the American authorities decided to prosecute them.

The session of the court this afternoon was occupied in hearing testimony of ship carpenter Andrew Johnson. He fully corroborated the testimony of Joseph Brisk and Frederick Martin, able seamen. Johnson swears the prisoners continually compelled Jansen to attempt tasks he was too weak to accomplish, and when the man failed he slid or fell down from weakness, and the prisoners kicked him in the stomach, belabored him with clubs, straps or ropes, tied him up by the thumbs, and placed him in perilous positions, as if to have him fall overboard. He was frequently tied up by the thumbs in such a way that the tips of his toes barely touched the deck, and so that at every rock of the vessel he would be swung from bulwark to bulwark, his entire weight suspended by the thumbs.

It was intimated by the judge at the opening of to-day's hearing that Harcourt has issued a fresh warrant for the arrest of the prisoners on the part of the United States, for their extradition. Henry White, second secretary of the legation, watched the case in behalf of America. All the evidence previously given was presented before the court and the case again adjourned.

This proposal is opposed by Premier Ferry, on the ground that he had given a formal promise to the English government that he would not declare war against China.

It is suspected that Chinese intrigue is at the bottom of the uprising, and a general massacre of French at military posts is feared. The king has telegraphed that he is powerless to resist the revolutionists, and a large force of French troops has been ordered in readiness to proceed from Saigon to aid the king in restoring order and punishing the offenders.

TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 13 1885

THE RAINY DAY

There is an old proverb which enforces the wisdom of laying away something for a rainy day. If every one could pick up a living, like the birds, by simply hunting for it, even then prudence would dictate the propriety and advantage of gathering a little ahead as a protection against emergency. The rainy day is sure to come, and then the business of getting a livelihood is attended with difficulties.

The rainy day has come to many during the past few months. Indeed, there is a general "wet spell," which threatens to be painfully prolonged, and those who have not provided for it by laying up something in the bank, or in the traditional old stocking, may suffer severely by reason of their improvidence.

By the shutting down of a single establishment near Pittsburg recently two thousand workmen were thrown out of employment. A person familiar with the locality states that these two thousand men supported no less than one hundred liquor shops while the works were in operation, and that the liquor bills of some of workmen averaged $30 each per month!

Thirty dollars a month for this "luxury!" Surely out of this liberal expenditure there might have been something saved for a rainy day. But what is gone is hopelessly gone, and cannot be regained. There are some, perhaps, who have been more provident, and who will be able to tide over the period of depression without suffering from want or seeking assistance from strangers. The improvident should consider this matter, and firmly resolve to hereafter provide against the rainy day. The best friends of the poor man or working classes are those who would make it impossible, by high license or otherwise, for them to have opportunity to throw away their money and bring themselves and their families to want.

MR VANDERBILT AND GEN GRANT

When Mr William H Vanderbilt entered up a judgment against General Grant for $150,000, the amount of his loan, taking as security every thing of cash value which General Grant possessed, no one could question his right to his judgment, nor his further legal right to press it to collection. But there was what Judge Deady called, in his comments upon Mr Villard's gift to our state university, "a certain undefined moral obligation" resting upon Mr Vanderbilt in view of his colossal wealth which he could not decently disregard and we are not surprised therefore to learn that he has relinquished his claim to General Grant's property and at the same time anticipated the disposition which General Grant intended to make of the memorials of victories which gave stability and value to his own vast properties. The loan of $150,000 was made, as Mr Vanderbilt says, not because it was a business-like transaction, but simply because the request came from General Grant. For the same reason Mr Vanderbilt has declined to treat the debt as a business matter, except to reduce the properties turned over to him to possession so that he might restore the articles of special interest.

In thus acting Mr. Vanderbilt has made himself the agent and representative of the honor and gratitude of the American people. General Grant is the personification of the suppression of the rebellion. As such his services to the government and people of the United States admit of no measure of comparison. We must apply to them the standard of the civilized world, which is the standard of history. While the people of the United States are averse to such recognition of great service to one's country as is customary in Europe, and such as England has ever and still continues to manifest, it is none the less true that the feeling is as wide and deep here as there. It is contrary to our sentiments, to what is called the genius of our institutions, being forbidden in our fundamental law, to manifest this feeling in the best way of hereditary honors or emoluments. But it will be manifested in this case, so long as General Grant lives, by either the generous co-operation of the few, or the equally generous though respectively small, contributions of the many. And this is sure to be done exactly upon the principle which pensions the private soldier—as a liberal and fair discrimination as to service rendered to the nation. We have not been niggardly with the rank and file. We shall not be penurious with the man who, whether greater or more patriotic than others or not, actually crushed out, as commander-in-chief, the rebellion.

It is not worth while to inquire any further into the causes of General Grant's pecuniary destitution. The whole matter may be summed up in the statement that he is utterly incompetent as a business man, and that he was eagerly solicitous for the material welfare of his sons. The circumstances to which he had become reduced appealed alike to the honor and gratitude of the people. As the representative of this feeling Mr. Vanderbilt has taken the only honorable course that was open to him. The next most obviously appropriate thing to do is to place General Grant upon the retired list of the army. That would be a dignified way of dealing with the matter and it would avoid any objections on his part as to the acceptance of a pension, and the technical objection to the creation of a special pension. This would render the earthly future of the great commander wholly free from monetary anxiety. This at least the nation can honorably do.

It is worth while to notice in this connection what riches are worth to the possessor. [illegible] rich men, perhaps it was Mr. Vanderbilt or his father, has been quoted as saying that all he got out of his property was his board and clothes and the maintenance of his family, while he had the great labor of taking care of it, and that therefore he was really no better off than a forehanded farmer. But this is the narrowest possible view that can be taken of the worth of money, if we accept the miser's view who values money simply for the satisfaction it gives to a sordid passion. Nevertheless it is the view of large numbers of wealthy men who, to quote once more from Judge Deady, make no distribution of the property "than the every day expenditures that are necessary and incident to ownership." The main question with such people is not what can I do with my money that will give me an enduring fame by [illegible] my name in some honorable way with that of a person whose name and fame are immortal, as Mr. Vanderbilt has done, or with some institution of public utility which will stand while the world endures, as Mr. [illegible] did, or which can I do in a more private way to discharge the trust imposed on me by lightening the burdens of the sons of toil; but the question is how can I keep what I have got, and add more to it and escape taxation. Mr. Vanderbilt had wit enough to see that by discharging a debt which he had allowed General Grant to assume in violation of the principles of business he could connect his name with the military achievements of General Grant by giving to a trust the "perpetual memorials of his fame" [illegible] the history of the United States. The forehanded farmer could not do anything like this.

Barring politicians and taking average measure, this amount is the equivalent of about 1[illegible] separate drinks per year. CHARTER AMENDMENTS

At a meeting of the board of trade last evening, the committee on the revision of the city charter made its report. Since the publication of the recommendations of this committee in THE OREGONIAN Sunday morning, a few changes have been made which are of some importance. One was made at the suggestion of THE OREGONIAN, that the city commissioners should all be elected at the same time and for the term of two years. Another was the addition in the enumeration of the powers of the common council of power to prevent the sale of obscene literature.

It is very significant of the sense which the business men of Portland take of the work of this committee, that the board of trade at a full meeting last evening unanimously adopted their report. The board of trade is composed, as is well known, of the business men of this city, men who are most deeply interested, not only as taxpayers, but as citizens of a progressive city, in the administration of its affairs. Their approval of the proposed changes in the charter ought to have great weight, as we have no doubt it will have, with the legislature, which will be asked to enact them as the law for the government of this city. The great object intended to be secured by the creation of a board of city commissioners is to separate the appointing power from the power which holds the purse-strings of the city government, and thus prevent the corrupt use of the appointing power. We have not examined every part of the recommendations of the committee with sufficient care to be able to give a succinct and intelligible explanation of their respective merits; but so far as we have examined them—with the change in the method of electing the commissioners as stated—they meet our approval and we think it will be for the interest of all concerned, to have them adopted by the legislature. As for the objections that have been urged, we can only say that one of the best guides toward the attainment of a good system of municipal government is the attitude and conduct of the men who are interested in perpetuating the present state of affairs. A scheme of municipal reform which is actively opposed by men who are in city politics for what they can make out of them, is worthy of consideration with a view to possible adoption, and it is reasonable to suppose that the features of a proposed reform which seem most objectionable to such men are its strongest points.

In discussing the adjustment of rates of transportation it has been suggested that while in the eastern states 17,000 passengers are carried for each mile of road, in the western states less than 1100 per mile are carried, and in the southern states only 698. In the eastern states 11,[illegible]10 tons of freight are carried annually for each mile of road, in the west, say 2400 tons, and in the south 1200 tons. Now, says the Boston Herald, "Any legislation which seeks to treat under one uniform rule matters thus divergent cannot be productive of salutary results," the rule being assumed to be one which should compel all railroad companies to observe a common schedule rate of transportation for passengers and freight. It is plain that such a rule is neither applicable nor just. The rule should be that for the same service the railroad company, and all railroad companies, should charge each and all the same rate. The principle upon which state control can be exercised fairly is that the charges must be reasonable, and that there must be no inequitable discrimination. It is for the interest of railroad companies to deal fairly by the people, for it is coming to be more and more the settled popular conviction, as it is the established law, that they are in the power of the legislators, and the legislators in the emergency are controlled by the pressure of public opinion.

Great [illegible], perhaps the greatest obstacle to the success of missionaries in [illegible] central Africa is the slave trade which is still carried on between the west coast of Africa and Arabia. Not two months ago a British ship-of-war, the Philomel, captured two dhows, loaded with slaves, who were rescued and landed at Aden, where the men were given work on the fortifications and the boys and girls were sent to Protestant and Roman Catholic mission schools. Until this trade is wholly suppressed missionaries and colonists can make but a slight impression on a people who have learned to shrink from the Arab and the European as a wild and destructive animal.

The arrest of a Chinese murderer in New York has revealed the fact that some of the organized and appalling forms of crime which flourish in the rank fecundity of humanity in that country, like leprosy and other extraordinary diseases, have been practiced to some extent in that city. The same fact has been so long known on this coast that it no longer excites surprise or even much interest. Crimes like the Indian thuggism are practiced in China, and that murders for a few cash are as common as robberies in civilized countries. And where the Chinese congregate in this country the same crimes are practiced, though to a diminishing degree, for when they are discovered they are promptly punished.

PRIZE FIGHT AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Jan 12.—A prize fight with hard gloves between Jerry Murphy of New York and Bob Steele, light weight champion of New England, for $200 a side, came off at the base ball park this afternoon. Murphy was in fine trim, but Steele appeared over trained or weak. The men fought eight rounds each, which lasted from one to two minutes, and each ended with Steele being knocked down. In the first round Steele was knocked down twice and in the seventh twice and was carried to his corner by his second. In the eighth round the men had sparred half a minute, when the sheriff and police interfered, putting a stop to the contest. The referee decided the fight a draw. No blood was shed. A thousand spectators witnessed the fight.

WALDO PRESIDES IN THE SENATE

Keady of Benton Elected Speaker of the House The Multnomah Delegation Runs Against a Rock Full Proceedings

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, Jan 12.—The buzzing in the lobby of the Chemeketa hotel continued until late last night, and began again early this morning. It was mostly without purpose or point, and resulted in nothing. No combinations are made so far as reported in sight, up to the hour of convening there were no changes in the situation as reported in THE OREGONIAN this morning.

At 10 the senate chamber was filled with members and interested spectators. Selecting seats seemed to be the first order of business among the senators, during which considerable good natured rivalry ensued. The number of ladies seeking positions is largely in excess of former sessions.

The senate chamber has been fitted up with new desks and cushioned chairs. Stained glass windows have been added, also many incidental conveniences. The hold-over senators express themselves well pleased with the changes.

There was no formal call to order in the morning but it was informally decided to meet at 1 P M

SENATE

At 1:30 Hirsch of Multnomah called the senate to order, and for temporary president nominated Waldo of Marion, who was unanimously elected. Temporary organization was completed by the election of J. W Strange of Douglas, chief clerk F. A Cook, assistant clerk, J S Purdom, sergeant-at-arms, and M A. Miller, doorkeeper.

After the appointment of Hirsch, Miller and Bilyeu as committee on credentials, Hirsch moved to adjourn to 4 o'clock.

Hoult proposed to change the hour until 10 to-morrow.

A proposition to call the ayes and nays on adjournment was objected to by Lee, and supported by Myers. The discussion became general, evincing the desire of the republicans to complete organization to-day, and that of the democrats to postpone it until to-morrow.

Hirsch finally asked leave to amend his motion of adjournment until 7 this evening. Granted, and the senate adjourned.

EVENING SESSION

During the afternoon an informal caucus of republicans was held, at which it was decided to make all temporary officers permanent, except in the case of doorkeeper, Allie Brown being substituted for Miller.

For the presidency two ballots were taken, resulting in a tie, 7 to 7, between Lee and Warner. By mutual consent both were withdrawn, and it was decided unanimously to support Waldo.

The senate reassembled at 7:30.

The committee on credentials reported as entitled to seats those heretofore named in the printed lists. The committee also reported a notice of contest by Lee Laughlin of Yamhill, for the seat held by Burch.

The senate then proceeded to complete its organization, following in every particular the programme of the caucus. The democrats cast a complimentary vote for Enoch Hoult for president.

I T Williams of Marion, and Eddie Crawford and Lawrence Smith of Salem were elected pages.

On taking the chair Mr Waldo said that if a few hours' notice had been given him he could have furnished a really fine and able speech, but as it was he could only promise to perform the duties of his office fairly and faithfully.

Burch offered a resolution, inviting the clergy of Salem to open the session with prayer. Adopted, with but two dissenting votes.

Voorhees introduced a resolution appointing Davenport, Cartwright, Allen, Myers and Bilyeu as a committee to arrange the standing committees of the senate. Adopted by a viva voce vote, about two thirds voting aye.

Lee moved that representatives of the press be invited to seats within the bar and given every aid within the resources of the sergeant at arms.

Warner moved that Hon Lee Laughlin, contestant from Yamhill, be given a seat inside the bar. Adopted.

Hare moved that the rules of the last session be re-adopted. Carried.

At 8 o'clock the senate adjourned.

HOUSE

At 10 o'clock all members of the house but Chandler and Hackett of Baker, and McHaley of Grant were in their seats, and five minutes later J. W. Strange, chief clerk of the house last session, called the house to order, and announced that the first business in order was the election of a temporary chairman. Storey of Multnomah nominated Riddle of Douglas, who was chosen by acclamation. Mr Riddle took the speaker's desk without ceremony and called for nominations for temporary clerk. J W Strange of Douglas, George H Burnett of Marion, and Charles W Trush of Multnomah were nominated. Strange declined, and a call of the roll resulted in the election of Trush, who received thirty-four votes.

For temporary assistant clerk, Block of Union received thirty votes, Patton of Lane sixteen, Swift of Lane eight.

The speaker announced the following committee on credentials: Smith of Washington, Kenworthy of Multnomah, Shelton of Linn, Downing of Marion and Manning of Douglas. Adjourned till 2:30.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session of the house was called at 2:40.

The committee on credentials reported the list of membership as heretofore published in THE OREGONIAN, except in the case of Grant county, from which no credentials were submitted.

After a brief recess the secretary of state administered the official oath.

W P Keady of Benton, A N Gilbert of Marion, and T H Montanye of Linn, the latter a democrat, were nominated for the speakership. The first ballot stood:

For Montanye—Absalom Bilyeu, Barton, Black, Beall, Cyrus Craven, Cox, Dick, Hawes, Leinenweber, Lewis, Miller, Morrow, Nesmith, Porter, Terry, Shelton, Taylor, Veatch, Watts and Kuykendall—22.

For Gilbert—Bleakney, Bourne, Cusick, Downing, Davenport, Flynn, Gee, Keady, Kenworthy, Manning, Mayo, Riddle, Rogers, Sanders, Thompson, Will, Woodward—17.

For Keady—Barnes, Connor, Colt, Cameron, Gilbert, Gibson, Hinkle, Jolly, Lyle, Prosser, Roberts, Story, Sutton, Smith, Wait, Wilcox—17.

At the end of the roll call for the second ballot the result was unchanged, but before the ballot was announced all the democrats excepting Craven and Leinenweber changed to Keady, whereupon Hinkle, Jolly, Lyle and Story changed from Keady to Gilbert, and [illegible] changed from Keady to Riddle.

The vote, as announced, stood Keady [illegible], Gilbert [illegible], and Montanye [illegible], a clear majority for Keady, who was declared elected.

On taking the chair Mr Keady thanked his colleagues for their favor, and said that it would be his most serious effort to preside honestly and fairly. He hoped that the session would be harmonious and result in the greatest possible advantage to the state.

Story nominated Colonel E. S. Howlett for chief clerk, and he was elected by acclamation. This was discovered to be informal and the vote was reconsidered, and the ballot called, Howlett receiving all the votes, excepting those of a few democrats, who voted blank.

J T Gregg, of Marion, was chosen assistant clerk, and John C Booth, of Salem, sergeant-at-arms. Three ballots were called for doorkeeper and pending election the house adjourned for the day, at 5 o'clock.

A SERIES OF SURPRISES

A Very Cold Day for Multnomah County in the Oregon Senate

SALEM, Jan. 12.—The prime factor in the events and surprises which have marked this day has been the ill feeling of the valley towards Portland. It has been the one evident and controlling motive in every important act, and not in a single instance has it failed of its purpose. Keady's canvass for the speakership was upon the anti Portland issue. It was asserted that a combination had been formed between a Portland candidate for the presidency of the senate and Gilbert for the speakership of the house. This never was the fact and that there was no bargain with Gilbert was proved by the first ballot, when three Multnomah men voted for Keady. The anti Portland issue alone would not have carried the day. Keady had stronger claims in his fitness for the position and his record of past service but he found that the issue had been forced against his will. Of the thirty-four republican votes cast, he received two votes on the final ballot, and these, with nineteen democratic votes gave him the speakership. The democrats voted for him in the hope of adding bitterness to the division between the republicans on the question of locality. Their plan was admirable as a piece of diplomacy and its execution was perfect in its way. For two days it has been whispered about the lobbies that Keady would be elected by democratic votes, but it has been denied with such an appearance of honesty that its accomplishment was a complete surprise. It is but fair to Keady to say that he declares that there was no prearrangement on his part, and that the democratic move was as much a surprise to him as to anybody else. I believe that he is candid in the matter and that he will not in the formation of committees or in other respects display hostile feeling towards Portland.

The action of the democrats [illegible] the prophecy that they will not remain an idle minority, but be a factor in whatever may seem worth their attention. Harmony and adroit management were both evident, and as their plan of action is that of confounding their enemies they are seriously to be feared. Storey of Multnomah who was spoken of for the speakership declined to stand for the position though he had some assurances which might have carried him through.

The election of Waldo as president of the senate was another surprise, but it was the outcome of a friendly contest and left no bitter feeling. Less fair was the choice of the committee to arrange the permanent committees of the senate, in which Multnomah county was not given representation. The slight could not have been otherwise than intentional and it is particularly noticeable from the fact that Multnomah, the most important county in the state politically and otherwise, has no representative in any administrative capacity in the senate.

The house adjourned this morning under the impression that it was legally organized, and it was not discovered till later that as the officers had not been sworn in the organization was still informal and this will throw the first ballot for senator over till two weeks from to-morrow. The delay was, I think, without design, but if there was purpose in it, it was on the part of democrats.

There is still no concentration of opinion in the matter of the senatorship, but the attitude of democrats who stand in readiness to aid a republican minority in the election of an improper man makes the situation one of some danger.

The contest between Burch, democrat, and Laughlin, Republican, promises to throw some light on the conduct of the last state election in Yamhill county. The official majority, as shown by Burch's credentials, was a single vote. In his notice of contest Laughlin claims that among the votes counted for Burch were three cast by aliens and eleven by non residents. He claims, further, that one vote cast for him in East Chehalem precinct was thrown out by the judges upon a false presumption, and that a similar vote cast for Burch in Amity precinct was counted. The matter will have to be settled by a special committee.

The Baker and Grant county delegations, who have been detained by the blockade arrived to-night, and every member of the legislature is now here.

Introduction of bills will begin to-morrow.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

SLOW ABOUT PAYING THEIR LICENSES.—At the close of the year the licenses of a large number of liquor dealers run out, and it appears to be a difficult matter for some of the dealers to get them renewed. The council at its last meeting allowed these an extension of ten days in which to file their bonds. All city licenses were due on the 5th instant, but people have become so used to having their time extended to the 10th that many imagine that it is not necessary to pay till that time. And as the time for filing bonds has been extended, these dilatory fellows appear to think that they can put off paying their license as well for this additional time. This is not to be tolerated, and City Attorney Dement and Policeman Hudson, who has charge of collecting licenses, wish it distinctly understood that licenses of all kinds must be paid forthwith, or proceedings will be commenced against all delinquents, and in no case will a fine be remitted or a prosecution stayed on any account whatever. Only about fifty of the saloon keepers have as yet filed their receipts with the auditor. It is quite certain that many saloon keepers are intending to go out of business, and are just holding on and running their places as long as they can without paying the license. Whisky dealers are making a howl about high license, and claim that unless it is reduced some of them will have to go to work. Well, that is just what the high license law was passed for. We have for a long time had far too many dives, and now that the high license law is about to rid us of some of them we must expect these fellows, who had sooner jerk beer than work, to "squeal." Times are hard and wages low, and it is not right for the laboring classes to support too many lazy fellows who would sooner take a poor man's last nickel for slops of beer than to go out and do honest work.

ANNIVERSARY.—The Sunday school of the United Presbyterian church, at Durand Music hall, celebrated the first anniversary of its organization Sunday. The names of all of the first day's attendance were read, showing a membership of sixteen on the first day. The school has grown within the year to a membership of about seventy-five. The classes have increased from four to six. The collections, from $2 80 the first month to $15 30 last month. The record shows that of the original sixteen, but one has dropped out, except for removal, and that not one death has occurred in the school during the year. After the reports were read a short address was made by the superintendent, followed by some earnest words and pleasant reminiscences by four or five other members of the school.

CATTLE LIVING WITHOUT FOOD.—But few people probably have an idea as to how long cattle can live without food. The stockmen of Eastern Oregon every once in a while have an opportunity to test this matter, but hardly consider the knowledge gained an equivalent for the loss of cattle incurred. A. Lyle, of Wasco county, states that during the late storm several head of his cattle sought shelter under a juniper tree, and were obliged to remain there for 1 days, at the end of which time they came out gaunt and hungry but in a fair way to survive. If all cattle can live as long without food, and juniper trees are plentiful on the cattle ranges of Eastern Oregon, it is to be hoped that the losses of cattle may not prove so great as has been feared.

CHESTNUTS TO BE PLANTED HERE.—A Ferrara, who has a farm of 200 acres planted in chestnut trees eighteen miles from Genoa, Italy, yesterday received a large cask of nuts grown there. He intends to plant a portion of them, as the chestnut grows and produces well here. He says that from his Italian farm the snow peaks of the Alps are situated about the same as Mt Hood is to this city. This state has no native nut-bearing trees and yet it has been proven that the walnut, chestnut, etc. do well here, and it will be a very good thing when orchards of these trees are established. In Italy chestnuts are eaten roasted or boiled and are made into a sort of bread, which is both palatable and nutritious.

THE INDIAN KILLING CASE.—The case of the United States vs. Henry Barnhart and Francis Anderson, indicted for manslaughter, committed in the killing of an Indian on the Umatilla reservation last May, is to be tried to-day in the U. S. circuit court. This case has attracted considerable attention on account of the peculiar legal question involved, the defendants having been tried for the same crime in the state circuit court for Umatilla county and acquitted. The prosecution is represented by District Attorney Watson and the defendants by W. Lair Hill.

DROWNING.—Charles Davis of Lane county was drowned in the McKenzie river a few miles above Hendricks ferry, last Tuesday morning. He was engaged in logging with S. Skinner, C. Helmey and A. Davis. They attempted to cross the river in a skiff, which ran upon a rock about the middle of the stream and was upset. It floated down stream nearly a mile, all hands clinging to it, when it was again turned over and young Davis disappeared. The remainder of the party swam out in safety. At latest accounts the body had not been found.

SALE ENJOINED.—The property of the paper mill company at Bridal Veil station has been advertised for sale on execution by Sheriff Jordan. Yesterday C. A. Alisky applied to the circuit court for an order restraining the sheriff from selling the property on the ground that he was assignee of a note for $300 given by the company to William Druck and secured by mortgage on the mill and machinery of the company. The court issued an injunction restraining the sale until further orders.

LAWYERS FINED UNDER THE NEW RULES.—The rules lately adopted by the state circuit court are catching out some of the boys. Jas. Gleason was cinched $3 yesterday because a motion to make his complaint more definite was allowed, and Judge Stott, whose demurrer to Frank Jolly's complaint was overruled, is also out $3. It is only a question of time when all the other members of the bar will be fined, so they need not laugh at the first unfortunates.

TWO ARRESTS.—Benny Spence, a sailor, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued from Justice Bushwiler's court, charging him with assaulting a fellow tar with a knife. He denies the charge, but was unable to give bail, hence was committed. A fellow named John Moore, alias Curly, was also arrested by Constable Stephenson, charged with robbing a roommate. Both will have examinations to-day. These are about the first criminal cases Couch precinct court has had since the late presidential campaign.

VISITED THE U. S. BUILDING.—Mrs. Cuneo, the Denver terror, paid the U. S. court officials a visit yesterday. She professed to know something about a gang of counterfeiters, but her statements were so rambling and incoherent that nothing could be made of them, and she made herself such a nuisance around the building and so terrorized the district attorney and marshal that a policeman was telephoned for to take her away. She should be sent to the asylum.

IRON WORKS INCORPORATED.—Articles incorporating the Smith & Watson iron works were filed in the office of the county clerk yesterday. The incorporators are F. C. Smith, C. E. Smith and J. I. Watson. The business in which they propose to engage is conducting a general foundry and machine business. The principal office is to be in the city of Portland. The capital stock is $50,000, in shares of $100.

GOT ONIONS INSTEAD OF RAISINS.—A city merchant telegraphed an order to San Francisco last week for twenty boxes of raisins. By the last steamer he received twenty sacks of onions, the message having been "mulled" in transmission. Onions are not needed here at a cost of one and a half cents in San Francisco, and the merchant is now looking for some one to make up the discrepancy to him.

INDICTMENTS.—Among the indictments found by the grand jury on the last day of their session were the following: Michael Mooney, for assault on Thomas Johnson by throwing stones at him; Charles Binder for assault with dangerous weapon and shooting Hans Boch G. W. Brady, Emil Weber and Robert Gatewood for playing poker, and Thomas Tilden and John Thomason for dealing faro.

CO. G'S ENTERTAINMENT.—The members of Co. G, O. S. M., are meeting with flattering success in disposing of tickets to the play of "Rosedale" to be given at the New Market next week, in which the company will take a prominent part, the object being to use the portion of the proceeds allotted to them in the purchase of new dress uniforms. Some 500 tickets have already been sold.

CASE FOR CHARITY.—A Mrs. Cook, who resides eight miles back of Kalama, is in the city asking for aid in the way of clothing, provisions or money. Her husband is sick of consumption, they have four children and their house was burned to the ground recently. THE OREGONIAN is assured by a well known business man that the family are worthy of charity and in great need of it.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Unitarian society will be held to-night at 7 30 o clock in the chapel, corner of Yamhill and Seventh streets. Reports of officers and the pastor will be read, three trustees elected and other business transacted. A full attendance of those interested, both ladies and gentlemen, is requested.

THE ROYAL ROUTE.—The system of roads known as the Royal route is becoming very popular with people bound for eastern points, partly which is due so far as this section is concerned to the good management and personal popularity of the local agent here, Mr. W. H. Mead. The road is elegantly equipped and is the shortest route from the west to Chicago and other eastern points.

"THE ENTERPRISE."—The Oregon City E the office of which was completely burned out, will be republished as usual this week.

MOST DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

A German Digs his Grave, Makes his Will and then Blows Out his Brains.

Some time since a German named Schroder bought a place about a mile and a half from Clack mas station. He was an intelligent, well educated man, about 50 years of age, who traveled about the country a great deal, and at times made his home in a cabin on his place. Yesterday some of the residents in the vicinity, passing near his cabin, which is situated in a secluded place, noticed a black flag floating from it, and on going near saw a notice fastened to the door, stating that the occupant had committed suicide. On entering the body of Schroder was found. He had shot himself with a pistol, and as was found from documents on the table had been dead two weeks. He had made a will, and left instructions in regard to the disposition of his body, and also a statement of the causes of his putting an end to himself. He had been troubled with some disease of the eyes, and had lost the sight of one of them, and was expecting to lose the other, and did not care to live bereft of sight. He had dug his grave on his place, and directions were given whereby to find it. He ordered that his body be buried in this place, and in another place bequeathed it to the medical fraternity, and requested that some German physician take out his eyes and examine them and find out what it was that ailed them. He stated that he had bought this place to die on, and on one sheet of his paper was written, "In twenty minutes more the deed must be done." From the statement of his affairs it appears that Schroder owned some property in this city, and had several hundred dollars in one of the banks here, also some property at Coos Bay.

This is certainly one of the most deliberate and pre-determined cases of suicide on record. The only thing that would lead one to infer that Schroder was not in possession of all his faculties and perfectly sane when he committed the deed is the fact of his having dug his own grave and left orders to be buried in it, and then bequeathing his body to the medical fraternity. He was buried yesterday in the grave he had dug, and as his neighbors laid him away, they doubtless wondered what could have been the man's feelings when he was digging it.

"THE OCTOROON."

Successful Revival of a Popular Southern Drama of the Olden Time.

Grismer rang up the New Market curtain last night to a large audience, it being the first performance in several years of Boucicault's popular drama of "The Octoroon." This piece is founded on one of Captain Mayne Reid's novels, and was brought out at Wallack's in New York, just prior to the outbreak of the civil war, with Joe Jefferson as Salem Scudder and Boucicault as the Indian, Wah-no-tee. It has since been played many times in Oregon, but always with limited accessories. Mr. Grismer conceived the idea of putting it on with new features, and for that purpose hired many new people, especially several of the Jubilee singers who have domesticated themselves among us. With the aid of these he was enabled to give the slave auction in the third act, and the great levee scene in the fourth, with the colored roustabouts as it has never before been given here. Southern steamboat men who were in the house were loud in their applause of the scene, which recalled the days of the great "Paytona" and Eclipse, with recollections of Jack Shillcross and Harry Spotts.

The cast was a strong one, the part of Salem being given to Mr. Frank Wright, who banished the stereotyped stage Yankee and gave a realistic and sensible delineation of the honest cynic of Terrebonne. Grismer played the drunken Indian as it should be done—quietly at first, but in the knife duel in the canebrake he rushed at the scoundrel with savage rapacity. And Stockwell's personation of Old Pete was a triumph, easy and never overdone, just the faithful old plantation slave that has been so teleamed the world. It must rank as one of his very best efforts and shows his wonderful versatility as a comedian. The minor characters were all well sustained, but a want of space prohibits referring to them in detail.

But the heroine of the piece was beautifully and realistically rendered by Miss Phoebe Davies, who has added a new laurel to her already full crown by her chaste and elegant rendition of the beautiful slave girl. She looks the character from the moment she comes on the stage, and her great dark eyes help her out in this character amazingly. The charm of her acting is in its ease and repose. She can be as passive as any when it requires, and when it requires vehemence she has a reserved power that always comes to her aid. Her Zoe must henceforth rank as one of her very brightest and most life-like impersonations, and those who miss it will miss a real dramatic treat. The "Octoroon" has often been played in California and Oregon, but never with such an ensemble as it is now being given at the Newmarket.

RE-OPENING AT Y. M. C. A. LAST NIGHT

The second term of the educational classes opened most auspiciously last evening at the Y. M. C. A. The spacious gymnasium was well filled with a fine audience of young men and a fair number of ladies.

After a most wonderful exhibition of contortion acts by Mr. Frank Porter, the general secretary made a few statements with regard to the classes, gymnasium and lecture course and then called upon Professor R. K. Warren, Professor E. Cook and I. Josenhans, who outlined the work to be undertaken by the classes in double-entry bookkeeping, German, vocal music, freehand and mechanical drawing. Mr. Frost then made a few remarks about the class in elocution. Miss A. R. Luse instructor and short hand, which will be taught if a sufficient number desire.

Cards were then handed for signature and over 100 signified their intention of joining the classes. Mr. A. L. Hassler then gave an exhibition of fancy Indian club swinging which showed great skill and proficiency. This was followed by exercises on the parallel and horizontal bars and double and single rings by Messrs. Ferrey and Porter, which was also first class.

Classes in elocution, German and freehand and mechanical drawing commence this evening. The largest class will probably be that in vocal music, to which ladies are admitted. This will commence on Friday evening next.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

The New Charter Given to the Committee on Legislation

Its Passage to be Urged Not much Chance for a New Custom House The Fish Commission Willing to Stock the Columbia River

The regular monthly meeting of the board of trade last evening was well attended. At the usual hour, President Macleay called the board to order, and Secretary Arnold read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were adopted.

The secretary read a communication from E. M. Conser of Tennessee, to the editor of the Willamette Farmer, asking for information concerning Oregon. Referred to the immigration committee. Also one from the editor of the New York Chamber of Commerce Journal, relative to the proposed Spanish treaty, and asking an expression of opinion from the board.

Also from the editor of the New York Journal of Commerce Reporter asking if the board favored the adoption or rejection of the same treaty.

The secretary also read a lengthy article from the Grocer pertaining to the same treaty.

Members of the charter committee not members of the board, were invited to seats with in the room, on motion of the chairman of the committee.

The secretary read a letter from Senator J. N. Dolph acknowledging receipt of letters from the board and enclosing a letter from the lighthouse board stating that the contract for the construction of a new tender had not as yet been let, and that the disposition of a new tender would be considered when the tender is built.

Also from the New York board of health and the national board of health asking co-operation in securing national sanitary measures.

Mr. Dodd suggested that the report of the charter committee be received.

Mr. Goldsmith thought a reading of the changes made by the committee would be sufficient.

Judge Deady stated that many of the changes had been published in THE OREGONIAN and suggested that only the changes made since be read.

D. P. Thompson, chairman of the committee, briefly stated the changes and the additions to the report published in THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN.

Judge Deady briefly stated the late changes and a reading of the entire report was waived.

The secretary of the board read a communication from the committee stating they had completed their labors and presenting the report in full.

Mr. Dodd moved a vote of thanks to the charter committee; carried.

The report of the charter committee was placed in the hands of the legislative committee of the board with instructions to present it to the legislature.

The secretary of the board read several letters acknowledging communications from the board. Senator Dolph wrote that there was a very poor prospect of securing an appropriation for the erection of a new custom house in this city, and that the fish commission had expressed a willingness to stock the Columbia river and its tributaries with fish, and desired information as to the best location for a salmon hatchery.

Also a letter from Senator Dolph, enclosing reports of the fish commission and Commissioner Stone's trip down the Columbia river last year.

Several other letters relating to fish and fisheries were read by the secretary, including one from Spencer F. Baird, fish commissioner.

Mr. Goldsmith moved that the board express itself as opposed to the adoption of the proposed Spanish treaty. Mr. Dodd spoke against these treaties as a general thing. Mr. Goldsmith opposed the proposed treaty. Mr. Thompson also opposed the treaty. Mr. Kapus thought the question should be voted upon intelligently and wanted the matter laid on the table, as the action of the board could have no influence. Mr. Goldsmith looked upon it as a national affair and as such the Portland board should express its opinion. A motion to lay on the table was seconded, stated and lost. The original motion was carried almost unanimously.

Mr. Dodd of the immigration committee, read a bill to be submitted to the Oregon legislature for its action, appropriating $5000 per year for two years to be used for immigration, the money to be expended by a board to be created by the governor of the state.

Mr. Dodd moved that the board recommend the passage of the bill. Carried.

George L. Bigg was elected a member of the board.

The committee on trade and commerce presented a report, which was adopted.

S. J. Gr ..., Gerdes, Bitefuhl, Bernheim and Morton applied for membership to the board. Adjourned.

THE EAST SIDE

CHARTER COMMITTEE.

The committee selected by the citizens to suggest amendments to the city charter, assembled at the council chamber last evening pursuant to adjournment, all members being present. C. H. Hatfield chairman, presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The subcommittee, to whom was referred the amendment of article VI, regarding the establishment and improvement of streets, submitted a report making section 18 of article VI continue as follows: "And the common council shall have power to define and declare what shall constitute such lot or part thereof for this purpose, but when the land adjacent to said street to be improved shall not be laid off in blocks, then the cost of improvement shall be assessed to the owner or owners of the tract of land lying within 100 feet of such improvement," adopted.

Amendments were offered which brought out a spirited argument between Messrs Newell, Bond, Turnbull and Joseph, resulting in their being laid on the table until to-night.

Bond then offered the new section to article ..., section 1. "The city of East Portland shall not be bound by any contract or in any way liable thereon unless the same is authorized by a city ordinance and made in writing by order of the council signed by the mayor and recorder on the part of the city, and also signed by the other contracting party or parties," adopted.

By Haffey—To exempt from city taxation certain manufacturing interests for the period of five years, referred to a committee of one, consisting of J. A. Newell, to report to-night.

By Newell—That section 14 of article 5 be also amended as to read that the common council shall have no power to extend any contract beyond two years, adopted.

Mr. Stiler moved to reconsider the vote on section 2 article 4, subdivision 12, relating to the city's indebtedness, carried.

By Newell—That the above be amended so as to read that the limitation of the indebtedness shall be $20,000, carried.

Bond then moved to adjourn until to-night at 7 30 o clock; carried.

NOTES

Dr. Royal slipped and fell yesterday, sustaining a fracture of the small bone of the leg, which will lay him up for a time. The fracture was reduced by Dr. Saylor of Portland.

Petty thieves are again becoming numerous, as evidenced by several depredations committed lately. A clothes line on Asylum street, in Stephens' addition, and a tool chest at the car shop being the latest.

An altercation between a boy and a Chinaman, in front of the Home hotel yesterday, created a great deal of noise and no little excitement, the Chinaman slapping the boy well before they were separated. No arrests.

M. A. Baum an old time resident of this city, but who now is engaged in the drug business at Pendleton, is here on a visit to his parents. He reports times dull in Umatilla county, with plenty of cold weather, but as yet stock have not suffered materially. His stay will be short.

George Lanville city marshal, who has been east on a visit to his mother, returned last evening. He reports having a pleasant time with the "Old Folks at Home," but is glad to get back to Oregon. On his trip out here he experienced some very cold weather, having snow bound since the 7th of December. He says he wants no more of that.

On Saturday evening last Dr. E. A. Jones had some hard words with Henry Meyer, who keeps the Gambrinus Exchange, for which he was ejected from the latter's place of business with more haste than ceremony, whereupon the irate M. D. proceeded to Justice Coleman's court, and swore out a complaint against Mr. Meyer of assault and battery, who was arrested and upon being arraigned entered a plea of not guilty and demanding a jury, which was granted, the trial taking place yesterday, and a verdict rendered according to the plea entered by the defendant wherefore Mr. Meyer was discharged, the costs being taxed to the doctor amounting to ... dollars.

SHALL THE LICENSE BE REDUCED?

On Sunday evening Dr. Marvin of the First Congregational church, commented as follows on the petition now in circulation for reduction of the license to sell liquors in this city.

I greatly feared the new turn in the political wheel would bring forth a speedy demand from the makers and sellers of intoxicating drink for other privileges, and for what one of them has frankly called in the vernacular of his occupation "a new deal." The deep disgust which the St. John racket and tactics have produced in the public mind is to be turned to good account by the liquor interests of America, and upon the rising tide of that disgust the dealers in strong drink hope to float themselves into a haven of undisputed power. And in the city of Portland whatever has been accomplished for sobriety and good morals is to be undone, and Gehenna-holes of damnation are to breathe their foul vapors into our faces from well nigh every block in our beloved city. That, in plain English, is what the petition now in circulation means. The movement is a thinly disguised effort on the part of liquor men to circumvent public opinion and hoodwink our common council into a betrayal of public confidence and trust.

Now, friends, we cannot always see things in the same light. I am opposed to making the temperance question a national issue, and I had not the slightest sympathy with the St John movement. I accounted that movement a great mistake, and used all my influence in the pulpit and out of it to prevent intelligent men from wasting their votes upon empty air; but the mistake has been made, and it is not worth while to "cry over spilled milk." The great question before us now is that of our immediate duty here in the city of Portland. I will not discuss the prohibition movement throughout the country. In the end prohibition may succeed. God grant it may! But what we want to get at now is this deadly dragon that threatens to fill our city with its loathsome presence, and to devour from our homes the flower of youthful manhood. In Portland we have no prohibition, and are not likely to have for many a year, and the question becomes a very serious one, what shall a growing, thriving business city do to prevent the prostitution of public morals, the utter degradation of the youth, and the fearful increase of crime and poverty. We are dealing with desperate and bad men, who have before them no fear of God and no restraint of conscience, and whose gold and silver are at stake. And we have as much at stake, and more than they, for we have our homes and our churches—our firesides and our altars at stake upon the issue of this great conflict now in progress between God and sobriety upon one side, and the soul-damning traffic in liquor upon the other. I have no doubt as to the final outcome, for "right is right as God is God, and right the day must win;" but I am exceedingly anxious as to the immediate results, and as to the fate of the present generation.

Examine with me the petition now in circulation. To begin with it is a downright falsehood. High license has not destroyed the liquor demon, but has measurably crippled the creature's activity. The petitioners admit as much. After pronouncing high license a failure, and telling us it has not decreased the traffic in strong drink, they say. "The poor saloonkeeper who has been doing a small trade in the neighborhood where he lives is unable to pay and closes his doors." If that is so, and we have the word of the petitioners for it, high license is a success. One of the objects of high license was to accomplish that very result. High license is intended to drive small dealers out of the business, and restrict the larger ones. It means the restriction of the liquor traffic until such time as more radical measures may be possible. Why do the petitioners wish the license reduced from $500 to $300? I will tell you. It is so that the aforesaid impecunious saloonkeeper may return to his soul damning and hell-populating occupation of making drunkards of his neighbor's sons for a few blood red Judas coins. The petitioners pray the common council to open the breathing holes of Gehenna all over the city, and they have the audacity to tell those gentlemen these holes are to be of "benefit to the city at large." Can shameless effrontery go further? And a strong argument, they tell us, why the sale of liquor should be well nigh unrestricted is that the wealthy up town gambling houses are hard to reach. For that reason they think no effort should be made to handle the humbler miscreants who are within reach. The argument is worthy of the mind that conceived it.

Now friends, we want no reduction in the liquor license. We are looking forward to the time when we shall increase it. And we are not anxious to protect the poor liquor dealer. We remember that it is his business to make other men poor, to beggar whole families and to fill jails and almshouses. So far from desiring to protect him are we, that we want to do just what the petitioners complain that we are doing through high license. We want to crowd him out of business if we can. What a petition is this these men are circulating! No more infamous document would this petition be to encourage houses of prostitution and gambling dens. Just such things are encouraged by the petition in question, for wherever the cheap liquor saloon comes, shame and debauchery come also. Now we shall all be anxious to know who are the signers of that petition. Let the names be published for the benefit of the entire community. These Christian churches want to know who are the signers of that petition. Mothers who have sons going down to perdition through drink are anxious to know who these gentlemen are. Stand up, gentlemen, and be counted. Pure women and innocent children want to look you in the face. You want to protect the poor saloon keeper, do you? Who will protect the 1,000,000 moderate drinkers and the 1,000,000 out and out drunkards in this country? Who will protect the insulted wives of these drunkards? Who will protect their little children? Stand up, I say, and let us look at you. Ah! methinks the anxiety to protect is not quite so disinterested as it might be. It seems to me there is the jingle of the guinea in it all. Now if this accursed petition accomplishes nothing else it will make plainer than ever the true animus of the liquor men, and will convince thoughtful men that high license accomplishes something. I have too much respect for our common council to believe the petition can make the slightest difference with them. The councilmen are elected to carry out the will of the people and not of a gang of saloon keepers and liquor men. They know what that will is, and I believe they will not dig their political graves by siding for a single moment with intemperance and crime. Look at Portland—saloons, houses of prostitution, gambling dens, vile theaters and corrupt papers all in open sight, and yet here are men who want the saloonkeeper protected. Gentlemen of the common council, these churches trust you to do your duty—these homes look to you so stand between them and destruction."

The remainder of Dr. Marvin's address was an earnest plea for total abstinence and purity of political life.

SALVATION ARMY ROWS

DAYTON, O., Jan 12.—Excitement about the Salvation army has reached a crisis. They have recruited strong enough to be aggressive and Saturday night took to the street with tambourines, etc., in defiance of the officers. They were arrested and put in the station house, but refuse to go out on bail, saying Christ was in jail and the law will open the prison doors. Religious people are becoming interested and the end is not yet. They are determined to either work for the Lord or go to the work-house.

PLYMOUTH, Pa., Jan. 12.—This place has been the scene of a most exciting contest between the borough authorities and the Salvation army. The council had forbidden the playing of music in the streets Sunday. Captain Smith, woman leader of the Salvationists, in defiance appeared this afternoon with a tambourine. The chief of police and several officers arrested the woman and a riot ensued, the populace siding with the army. Officers drew their pistols and finally took the prisoner to be locked up. Burgess Dennis, however, fearing trouble released her. A meeting of the council was held and it was [illegible] to let matters rest for to-day.

THE EAST LIVERPOOL POISONING CASE

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, Jan. 12.—Annie Van Fossen, the young woman accused of poisoning the Van Fossen and the McBane families, this city, waived preliminary hearing, pleaded not guilty and was remanded to jail on a charge of murder in the first degree. No other deaths have occurred and the victims are all in a fair way to recover.

"I Don't Know What Ails Me"

Say many sufferer. "I have the 'blues' frightfully. I am troubled with headache and dizziness. I have lost my appetite; there is a bad taste in my mouth constantly. What is the matter with me?" We will tell you; you are bilious. Get a bottle of Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; use it faithfully, and you will soon be a new man again. All druggists have it.

HEAVY FAILURE

SALT LAKE, Jan 12.—The failure of John W. Lowell & Co., assigned January 10, 1885, was made public to-day. The assets are $265,000, liabilities about $183,000. All preferred creditors have collateral security. John W. Lowell has also assigned. J. L. Lyons, of Detroit, Michigan, is assignee for both.

CALIFORNIA

THE SHARON DIVORCE SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—During argument of the question of alimony in the Sharon divorce case to-day an affidavit of Nellie Brackett, one of the witnesses during the trial of the case, was introduced. It stated that the "My dear wife" letters were fixed by plaintiff after the suit against Sharon was instituted. An affidavit of ex-Senator Sharon was read. It charged that the testimony of Expert Gumpel, who swore the "My dear wife" letters were genuine, was given in accordance with a contract made with G. W. Tyler, plaintiff's attorney, by which Gumpel was to receive $2,000 if plaintiff won the suit. A contract was produced, and Tyler testified that he wrote the contract and signed both his and Gumpel's names. He said it was a trap to find out who was distributing Sharon's money. W. H. L. Barnes, defendant's attorney, testified that Lees, captain of city detectives, introduced him to John McLaughlin, clerk in Tyler's office, of whom Barnes purchased the contract for $2,000. Concluding his testimony, Barnes said: "I believe now the paper is a fraud, and withdraw it." The case was continued until Friday.

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL ASSOCIATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The Transcontinental Railway Association met at 3 this afternoon, Acting Commissioner Cannon in the chair. The doors were closed. The objects of the meeting are to readjust the percentage of gross receipts allowed roads comprising the association and elect a commissioner in place of Bustine, resigned. The names mentioned for the position are the present acting commissioner, Cannon, John Muir of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, and P. P. Shelby of the Union Pacific. Owing to the insufficient number of representatives present the meeting adjourned without transacting any business until to-morrow.

FIRE AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The Golden Gate coffee and spice mills, on the ground floor at [illegible] Front street, caught fire yesterday, which spread to the second floor, where the cigar factory of Rinst Bros. was situated. Total loss $10,000, nearly two-thirds of which is covered by insurance. The spice mills are owned by Kon Voss & Pechin. The building is owned by Jossiyn & Co.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES

At a meeting of the San Francisco stock and exchange board S. B. Wakefield was elected president, H. L. Van Wyck vice president, M. P. Hall, secretary, B. H. [illegible], chairman and caller, and W. F. Norwood treasurer.

A recount for sheriff was completed this afternoon. The majority of Hopkins, democrat, which was 21, is ascertained to be but eight.

KITTLEMAN CHALLENGES LEWIS

M. K. Kittleman, the well known sprint runner, has returned to this city, and has written a challenge to Frank Lewis, the famous Oregon sprinter, to make a match with him to run 100 yards, for from $500 to $1000 a side, $100 to be allowed Lewis for expenses to come to this city.

STANFORD A CANDIDATE

The Examiner's Sacramento special says ex-Governor Leland Stanford will be the republican candidate for United States senator. Objection, however, is being made to him, on the claim that he is not a citizen of California but of New York state.

THE LEGISLATURE.

SACRAMENTO, Jan 12.—The state senate after eleven ineffectual ballots for speaker pro tem., adjourned until to-morrow. This defers the election of United States senator until January 27.

The latest development in the United States senatorial contest is a letter written by ex-Governor Leland Stanford to Claus Spreckels, stating that he would not be a candidate for United States senator while Sargent or Perkins is in the field.

UTAH

MORMON MISSIONARY WORK IN MEXICO

SALT LAKE, Jan 12.—Following is official, from leaders of the Mormon church. A recent visit of prominent Mormons to Sonora was for missionary purposes only, the object being to introduce the book of Mormon, recently translated into the Spanish language, into the Yaquis tribe of Indians, and send missionaries who would instruct them in the arts of peace and civilization, as has been successfully done elsewhere by them. The Mexican authorities on the boundary line were fully cognizant of the purposes of the Mormon missionaries, and were anxious to have them carry out their intentions from their previously known success in that direction, giving full support thereto. Mormons claim to be satisfied with Utah, and only leave it if forced by lack of room to settle in states and territories adjoining. The missionaries did not see Chief Cajeme, and the whole story of a treaty defensive and offensive, or [illegible] colonization entirely is false.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

NEWS ITEMS FROM VICTORIA

VICTORIA, Jan 12.—The local parliament was opened to-day. There was a large attendance.

Nominations for mayor and councillors were made to-day. Messrs. Rithet, Carey and Bell are running for mayor.

The steamer G. W. Elder sailed at noon for San Francisco.

A dispatch to the Colonist from Ottawa announces that the supreme court has decided that the Dominion liquor act is ultra vires. This brings great relief to retail liquor dealers, three-fourths of whom would have been closed had the act become a law.

GERMANY.

THE QUESTION OF STEAMSHIP SUBSIDIES

BERLIN, Jan 12.—A sub-committee of the reichstag to-day discussed the question of subsidizing a direct steamship line to Australia and a branch line to Hong Kong, Shanghai, Japan and Corea, but no decision was reached. Boetticher explained to the committee that the proposal to subsidize a steamship line to Australia had no connection with the recent annexation of the territory of New Guinea. Captain Koester of the imperial navy urged the special importance to the German marine of an Australian steamship service. Bamberger gave notice that he would move to subsidize the Asiatic service only and abandon the Australian project. Postmaster Stephan urged Bamberger to refrain from making such a motion, as the Australian move was especially valuable to Germany. He said that unless Germany promptly improved her opportunities for intercourse with Australia others would interlope to her detriment. The discussion was adjourned.

CANADA

VESSEL LOADED WITH FURS PROBABLY LOST

MONTREAL, Jan 12.—The head office of the Hudson bay company in this city has received alarming intelligence concerning the safety of one of the finest vessels, the "Prince of Wales," homeward bound with a cargo of furs estimated to be worth nearly half a million dollars. The vessel was frozen in, in Hudson's bay, and it is feared she and a portion of the crew are lost. A portion of the crew reached the mainland and were rescued after having been nearly starved and frozen to death. An expedition will be organized to reach the vessel by sleds.

SCOTLAND

REDMOND SPEAKS AT EDINBURGH

EDINBURGH, Jan 12.—Redmond, member of parliament, addressed a large gathering of Irishmen in this city this evening. He declared the Parnellites had no sympathy with the perpetrators of outrages, and had no influence over them, but he said it is not the duty of Irishmen to act as detectives.

CANADA

DECISION IN FAVOR OF LIQUOR DEALERS.

OTTAWA, Jan 12.—The supreme court to-day gave judgment in the dominion liquor license case, holding the act passed by the Dominion parliament, known as the McCarthy act, is ultra vires, except so far as licensing vessels and wholesale licenses. The privy council of England had already decided that the right of regulating the liquor traffic rested in provincial governments.

GERMANY

A SENSATION CREATED

BERLIN, Jan 11.—The announcement of the desire of New Zealand to annex Samoa has caused a sensation here. The newspapers consider it certain that Germany and America will vigorously protest against annexation.

A MINORITY VOTE.

BERLIN, Jan 12.—A minority vote in the reichstag Saturday on a measure for developing Germany's colonial enterprises consisted of nine clericals and one socialist.
